Duan Yingbi,
President of CFPA

In 2012, the charity of China had not got over the negative impact by “Guo Meimei” incident yet, but we could see the hope and future therefrom. Because we have seen that China’s long-term economic reform not only has accumulated tremendous wealth, but also is, with the help of the internet and the development of mobile internet technology, extensively and continuously inspiring the economic consciousness and social consciousness, and also directly triggering inner consciousness. The Chinese society deeply calls for social innovation and charity reform, and pursues fairness, justice and righteousness. The Chinese society begins to inquire into the meaning of life; pursue great love for the world, sympathy and recognition; question the lack of transparency of public space; and urgently hope to participate in the new equal and non-vertical structure of public space. The society’s public consciousness is awakening, and the new chapter of philanthropy is unfolding.

At this historical turning point, we keep promoting the advancement of China Foundation for Poverty Alleviation (CFPA) by virtue of unwavering adherence, unremitting self-cultivation and relentless pursuit of innovation.

In 2012, we adhered to our mission, kept advocating transparent public services and improving project management ability, kept exploring the approaches to internationalization and, along with the supporters, made great efforts in improving health care and promoting educational equality in the poverty-stricken areas, providing timely aid for and improving the livelihood of people in disaster areas.

In 2012, we invested RMB 0.292 billion donations and issued RMB 1.356 billion petty loans, alleviating the living conditions of 1,850,000 poor people; there were 19,000,000 individual donations and over 7,000 collective donations; over 100,000 volunteers joined our action.

Such achievements have benefited from our adherence to the mission, improvement of internal governance, as well as eagerness for and persistent pursuit of innovation. In 2012, we launched key performance indicator assessment mechanism, established all-employees training mechanism, kept improving and promoting information construction, and introduced many excellent management tools to lay the foundation for CFPA’s continuous improvement. We continued to be open to the society with an open heart, we held the donors and social accountability briefings, and adhered to openness and transparency; we successively improved and operated the donors service system, financial system, project management system and CFPA’s new official website, aiding our commitment to transparency with transparency techniques; we kept examining ourselves, prepared the institutional issues list, formulated CFPA’s Six Bottom Lines of Behavior, and scrupulously abode by the rules; and we established an internal innovation encouragement mechanism to motivate the team to solve social problems with innovations.

All the achievements have dwelt in yesterday, and we need to prove ourselves tomorrow. Can CFPA make it? The answer is in the hand of every colleague at CFPA. The value of an charity organization depends on its ability to solve social problems, and its growth and development depend on innovation and efficacy. We shall always maintain the consciousness of innovation, keep reflecting on ourselves, keep searching for new methods, and keep trying to surpass the benchmarks; also, we shall hold on to efficacy, distribute and control time efficiently, keep questioning and improving our personal efficacy, and effectively enhancing organizational efficiency.

With the reform in social management system and the change in government functions, China’s philanthropy undertakings for poverty alleviation are facing great development opportunities, and every employees at CFPA is expected to keep learning, make innovations with keen determination, adhere to our mission and tenet, understand and put in practice the “Service, Change and Sunshine” culture, cultivate ourselves and fulfill others, so as to make the change and create one’s social value by persistence and innovation in the age of social change.

Improve Health Conditions

In poverty-stricken areas, medical service is inadequate, medical treatment guarantee level is low, and incidence of diseases is high. Especially, the morbidity and mortality of the pregnant and lying-in women and infants of poor physical conditions are high. In remote mountainous areas, many children grow up in a living environment featured by undiversified dietary pattern and malnutrition, which not only is harmful to their normal growth and development but also makes it hard for them to improve academic performance. The health care for the vulnerable population is a focus of attention of all sectors of society and even the whole world.

Therefore, we successively launched such programs as “Maternal and Infant Health Project” and “School-Feeding Program” to construct an integrated guarantee system for providing subsidies for pregnant and lying-in women, training medical workers, and offering medical equipment aid and relief supplies aid. Furthermore, we called on the whole society to be concerned about the nutrition status of children in poverty-stricken areas, provided them with nutritious meals, increased the in-hospital parturition rate of pregnant and lying-in women in poverty-stricken areas, and reduced the incidence of children malnutrition, guaranteeing children’s nutritional needs for growing and improving the physical and psychological health of the poor.

Guarantee Maternal and Child Health

Objective:

Reduce maternal mortality rate and infant mortality rate, and increase the poor mother's and children's life guarantee level and health level.

Promote Educational Equality

Restricted by many factors such as poor natural conditions and remote geographical location, the economic development of remote rural areas in China is slow, the dormitories of many village primary schools are out of repair for years and have become dilapidated buildings, unable to meet the pupils' accommodation needs. In recent years, the school merging program has aggravated the difficulty in accommodation of pupils in poverty-stricken areas. School supplies for poverty-stricken areas are insufficient, and the daily living expenses of the neediest senior high school students and college students are hard to be put into place.

Therefore, we launched programs such as School Dormitory Project, School Package, and New Great Wall Program to be dedicated to improving rural students' comprehensive development and living conditions in poverty-stricken areas. By building student dormitories, playgrounds and libraries, for village and town primary schools in poverty-stricken areas, organizing School Package donations, music, PE and art teacher training, volunteers' teaching in rural areas and subsidizing the most needy senior high school students and college students, we provided proper accommodation for students in poverty-stricken areas, improved the music, PE and art teaching status and learning conditions in rural primary schools in poverty-stricken areas, and helped the most needy senior high school students and college students finish school, sending care and love to poverty-stricken students, and cultivating a wholesome personality of the most needy students.

Provide Aid in Time

China is a country relatively frequented by natural disasters, “disaster-caused poverty” and “disaster-caused repoverty” are the primary causes for putting the poor population’s production and life in deep waters. Although the government has set up a powerful disaster assistance system and it has played a major role in disaster relief, because of a large population and frequent disasters in China, it is still required that NGOs mobilize social resources to supplement government rescue; especially, when it comes to the rescue of poverty-stricken areas and rural poor households, we need to come into play.

In the past, when major disasters such as 5.12 Wenchuan earthquake, southwest five province's drought, Yushu earthquake, Zhouqu mud-rock flow, and Southern flood broke out, we initiated emergency rescue actions at the soonest every time, including disaster emergency rescue, transition resettlement, and post-disaster reconstruction.

Emergency Relief Project

Develop International Assistance

Goal: uphold the philosophy of “promoting public welfare on an international scale, cherishing humanistic feelings, development & cooperation, great love around the world”; alleviate the anxieties and sufferings of vulnerable groups; establish a new image of Chinese people on the international area; assist Chinese enterprises in fulfilling international social responsibilities; be a pathfinder of internationalization of Chinese NGOs!

Great love knows no bounds. After disasters such as Indonesian tsunami, American New Hurricane Katrina, Burma typhoon, Pakistani earthquake, Chilean, Haitian and Japanese earthquakes, and drought in the Horn of Africa broke out, individuals and enterprises from all sectors of society extended their helping hands and donated a total of RMB 63,000,000 for such disaster areas.

In October, 2011, funded by China National Petroleum Corporation (CNPC), the Sudan-China Abu Ushar Friendship Hospital, the first hospital in our demonstration project of building maternal and infant healthcare network in Sudan was put into use. In 2012, the improved medical environment of the new hospital drew more and more patients, which totaled 52,128 in the year, and covered an area of 100km. The increased number of patients brought about the increase in the hospital's financial revenue, and the increment was put into decoration of old wards, garden greening, wall brushing, and reconstruction of sewerage system, and therefore the whole hospital takes on a refreshing new look.

In July - December, 2012, together with Sudan's Ministry of Health, the Sudan Al-Birr and Tawasul Charity Organization (BTO) and Sudan-China Abu Ushar Friendship Hospital, we officially launched the follow-up management project of Sudan-China Abu Ushar Friendship Hospital.
